Producers Notes

This play was written in the 1980’s and in many ways could be considered backward looking. However, the problems teachers encounter are very relevant in today’s society.

I do hope you will sit back and enjoy this light thriller. This is my first production for the Thespians so my thanks to a great cast and everyone else who has given their help.

It’s nice to see Diane Hutchinson back on stage after a break of a number of years. My particular thanks go to David White who had his parts sent by e-mail whilst on holiday in Australia with instructions from his daughter “get that learned Dad”.

Many thanks for your continued support.

Sandra Capper
